International seminar on

Indo-Arab Relations, Arabic Language and Literature in the Digital Era

On 27th & 28th October 2022

India and Arab countries have traditionally engaged close friendly relation as mutually. This socio cultural and trade relations date back to ancient period as per historical sources. One of the salient features of this relationship is its continuum.

Indo-Arab relation goes back to the centuries. There have been cultural ties with the Arab region throughout the history. Indians institutionalised ties with Arab world started in the recent years. The academic relations also entered into a new dimension in the contemporary period. Thanks to the virtual platforms which opened the vast exposure of the collaborations and associations between the Arabic departments in India and universities and institutions in Arab countries.

The proposed international seminar on "Indo-Arab Relations, Arabic Language and Literature in Digital Era" will be a recent addition in the series of international seminar and conference has been organized by the Department of Arabic, University of Calicut.

The programme will become an opportunity for the students, research scholars and faculty members to interact with the Arab academicians and writers so as to exchange cultural and literary views and thoughts. The programme also will help the scholars and students to have conceptual clarities on different topics of literature through the interactions with native speakers of Arabic language.

The department invites students, research scholars, teachers and academicians to participate in the programme.
